He may not be a cowboy... But that won't stop him from wrangling her heart. Chase O'Donnell is the proud new owner of the Caldwell Ranch—or maybe he's not so proud. Annoyed would be more like it. After receiving the news of his inheritance, Chase's first thought is to sell the ranch and be done with it—until one night with a beautiful blonde at a local honky-tonk has him changing his tune... Norah McKade is surprised by her instant attraction to the handsome new stranger and even more surprised when she finds out he's her new neighbor. But with Chase only being in town for a short amount of time, Norah determines getting tangled up with him a bad idea and promptly places Chase in the friend zone. Although a bit reluctant, Chase agrees to Norah's terms—but he's not about to deny or ignore the fact that there's more between them than just sexual attraction. He'll have to pull out all the stops to get her to change her mind and prove to her that it wouldn't be such a bad thing for her to fall in love with him.
