- And much, much more...

What to eat to lose weight on a low-carb diet from the book:

Breakfast

Eggs are a great protein to start out the day. Starting with a traditional breakfast, only eat two eggs in the morning for breakfast. Try not to exceed eating more eggs than that. Eggs are known to keep your stomach fuller as opposed to eating any other type of food for breakfast. A nice healthy side with eggs as opposed to toast; sauteed fresh spinach with a little salt and pepper to eat with your eggs in the morning.

Lunch

Lettuce wraps- Make chicken on the stove, add ginger, soy sauce, and garlic. Take shredded carrots and diced cucumbers to add on top with a garnish of a few sesame seeds. This wrap would taste wonderful with either a butter lettuce leaf or cabbage leaf.

Snacks

Cottage cheese with peaches or cantaloupe.

Goat cheese spread on top of sliced tomatoes.

Apples or celery with peanut butter.

More from the book:

Dinner

Bake chicken in the oven with lemon juice, spices, and capers. Add basil or cilantro for flavor. As a side make Brussels sprouts in the oven on bake for about ten minutes and the last remaining two minutes set the oven to broil on high so they are a little crispy. Brush the Brussels sprouts with a little olive oil and add your choice of seasonings for flavor before putting them into the oven.

Wrap salmon in foil and add tomatoes, onions, garlic, capers, and lemon juice on top of the salmon. Wrap all of the ingredients up and put them in the oven and bake at 350 degrees for twenty minutes.
