Researching Education and the Environment: Retrospect and Prospect

Previously published as a special issue of Environmental Education Research, this collection includes papers published in the first 10 years of the journal, together with a series of specially commissioned critical vignettes that address the kinds of research that the journal attracts and wider aspects of the journal's work over that time.

Contributors and editors also look ahead to the next ten years, discussing six major themes within contemporary research that require close scrutiny:

- EE and ESD: tension or transition?
- locating the environmental in environmental education research
- doing environmental education research
- environmental learning as process and outcome
- environmental education for ...
- developing environmental education research.

For each theme, two papers published by the journal in the first ten years are re-printed and two researchers review the issues they raise, giving readers a broad and future-facing overview of the development of the field today.
